

Kau Yan School (Kindergarten Section)
The Year 2024-2025
Principal's Message

11th July, 2025

Dear Parents,

As the semester comes to a successful close, I am filled with gratitude and joy reflecting on the past year. I would like to sincerely thank all parents for your support and trust in our school. Your participation and collaboration have made our educational efforts smoother. In the days to come, we will continue to work together to support the learning and growth of our children, creating an environment filled with love and happiness, where they can build confidence and the ability to learn independently on their journey of knowledge exploration.

Additionally, I want to express my appreciation for the children who have wholeheartedly enjoyed their time learning at Kau Yan this semester. The topics and areas explored across all levels this year have truly blossomed, reflecting the diverse interests of each group of children. Their sharing has sparked discussions from various perspectives. Moreover, the number and variety of outdoor excursions have been greater and broader than in previous years. I particularly admire the courage and persistence the children have shown during the learning process. They are often filled with curiosity, eager to explore and willing to try new things. This attitude of seeking truth and novelty is an essential foundation for their future learning and growth.

As the semester ends, I frequently hear children confidently sharing, "I'm about to promote to another grade!" and "I've grown up; I can do many things without help!" Their expressions of confidence are truly heartwarming. I hope every child can maintain this passion for knowledge, carrying the rich experiences and joys from this year into the new school year with a positive mindset to face various challenges as they smoothly transition into the next learning stage.

For our K3 graduates who will soon enter primary school, we completed an imperfect yet unforgettable graduation day camp yesterday. Although the weather was not as expected, our Heavenly Father loved us, allowing us to arrive at the campsite "dry and comfortable" despite the storm. Inside, we enjoyed the day camp activities prepared by all the teachers for them before the last day of school. I hope each graduate carries beautiful memories and the knowledge and skills learned in kindergarten, stepping confidently into the future. Every new environment is a new exploration, and may they clearly see the unique abilities bestowed upon them by our Heavenly Father, maintaining an attitude of courage as they pursue and achieve their dreams.

Finally, I wish everyone a pleasant summer vacation. Relax and enjoy every moment of life. I look forward to seeing you again in the new semester and sharing more stories of learning and growth! Graduates, remember to come back and share your primary school experiences with us! Jesus loves you!

Yours faithfully,

KWAN Shan, Principal
